

Angel Radio
17 Market Parade
Havant
PO9 1PY

Tel: 023 9248 1988
 Free: 0800 014 1955
 Web: angelradio.co.uk
 Email: angelradiohavant@yahoo.co.uk

Registered Charity: 01138441

The Queen's Award
 for Voluntary Service

MUSIC & MEMORIES :: Snap, Crackle, but no Pop

DAB digital :: 101.1 FM :: Online

17th March 2015

Dear Sir

Regarding the request for a licence to sell alcohol by Cyber Candy at 15 Market Parade, Havant. I wish to see the application rejected.

As next door neighbour to Cyber Candy I have witnessed on a daily basis this company's employees disregard for any form of decency. They are incompetent and have shown no regard for their neighbours.

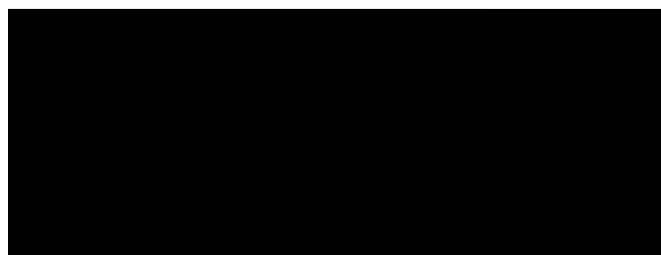

I have no doubt that this will continue to be the way they operate with regard to sale of tobacco and alcohol regulations.

Since the day they moved in they have blocked our drains, damaged our internal walls, put the entire radio station off air by parking in our presenter's clearly designated parking space, thus causing him to give up and go home, and generally caused noise nuisance to all their neighbours beside and above them.

The sale of alcohol to minors is illegal, yet the very name of the shop CYBER CANDY is designed to appeal to minors. The design of the shop's signage is also aimed at youngsters.

Further, I was led to believe that their application for a licence to sell alcohol had not yet been approved so, why are they displaying and selling alcohol this morning? If I switched my radio transmitter on before my licence was approved I would be liable to a £5,000 fine, 5-years in prison and disqualified from holding a radio transmission licence for 8-years. Yet these incompetent shop owners appear to have no problem with licenses.

Yours sincerely

Tony Smith: Station Manager

